

New English Curriculum

Reading

New Curriculum...

- Greater emphasis on literature
- Greater emphasis on non fiction and information texts throughout curriculum
- Exposure to a range of high quality literature
- Study of authors
- Retelling a wide range of stories
- Learning and reciting poetry, building up a repertoire of poems learnt by heart

New Curriculum...Reading

The programme of study for reading consists of two dimensions:

- Word Reading
- Comprehension

It is essential that teaching focuses on developing pupils' competence in both dimensions; different kinds of teaching are needed for each.

New Curriculum...

- Emphasis of phonics in FS
- In Year one, continued focus on phonic teaching, reinforced from Foundation Stage
- Sooner use of phonics without overt blending, but focus on accuracy and speed in year 2
- Comprehension skills developed across Key Stage 1
 - answering questions, predicting what might happen and making links between the book being read and other books
- Series of workshops this evening – phonics and comprehension in year 1 and year 2, top tips

National Curriculum for English aims to ensure that all pupils..

Develop the habit of reading widely and often, for both pleasure and information
